

CORREON TRIAL IS COMMENCED

Charged With Having 2500
Cartridges in Auto, En
Route to Juarez.

Luis Correon was on trial Saturday in United States district court on a charge of violating the regulations affecting the shipment of ammunition into Mexico. The government alleges that on June 19, 1916, an automobile en route to Juarez from El Paso, was found to contain 2500 rifle cartridges. Sentences were read by Judge W. R. Smith Saturday morning as follows:

Mr. C. C. Melanson, two years in penitentiary; A. H. Ellingwood, two years. Mr. Melanson had been indicted jointly with Mr. A. Dolan, the charge being violating the national laws. It was testified in the case that about 300 prescriptions calling for narcotics had been written by the doctor. Dolan had been sentenced previously to the penitentiary for 1000 fine.

Ellingwood, a soldier, had originally been indicted on a charge of violating the Mann act, and a perjury charge followed his testimony at preliminary hearing. The evidence impounded Saturday was on the latter charge, the first being still untried.

The case of Edward E. Stone, former special investigator for the government at El Paso, under indictment for the alleged accepting of a bribe, has been continued to the April 1926 term of court.

U. S. PURCHASES MEXICAN PESOS

Buys 6,000,000 of Them to Mint Them Into United States Coin; Pays Gold.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—The United States treasury department has purchased 6,000,000 Mexican silver pesos at $8.14 cents apiece and will mint them into American coins. The purchase was made to provide silver for minting at a time when silver seemed too high. Now it has dropped from $1.15 to 85 cents an ounce. The recent high price is regarded as unwarranted, and an official investigation is to be undertaken to determine whether the silver market was manipulated.

MEXICO EMBARGO HASN'T BEEN SETTLED, IS REPORT

The Mexican government has not yet approved the tentative embargo agreement reached in Washington between ambassador Ignacio Carranza and representatives of the American government, according to advices received here by mining companies from Mexico City.

This tentative agreement specified that the metals embargo would be modified by Mexico in return for shipment of gold and corn from the United States. A clause in the proposed agreement prohibiting the shipment of food or gold to other countries from Mexico was said to have been the reason for Mexico declining to enter into the agreement, and a counter proposal is expected from president Carranza according to the message received here.

PLAY INSTITUTE FOR ALL PEOPLE

A. A. Fisk, of Fosdick Commission, Suggests Plan for Public Recreation.

Speaking of community recreation, to the teachers, patrons and pupils of the Grandview school Friday afternoon, A. A. Fisk, of the Fosdick national recreation and welfare commission at army training camp, said: "In our endeavor to build a city on a solid rock foundation, so to speak, there is grave danger that we shall overlook some forces that play a very important part in community building. The vigorous and healthy environment of every community is the safeguard of society. Every community must organize to protect the character of the leisure hour. The play institute was born with the individual and he never outgrows it. This institute is just as truly one of the center of that of bearing or sight. We cannot, nor it is our duty to ignore it. We see the outward expression of this instinct on every side. It is this same energy which is badly directed which is the cause of many of our social evils. The manner in which we employ our leisure time is to a marked degree, a matter of habit. The manner in which these habits are fashioned depends so largely upon the recreative institutions to which we have access, that we have a right to consider it a matter of public concern. It is very important that public recreation be headed up under some organization which is in thorough sympathy and accord with the broadest interpretation of this work. This is very important, for no institution can thrive in an atmosphere of antagonism. We find in some cities that this work is headed up under the public school system. In some cities a special recreation committee is appointed in other cities the responsibility for all public recreative institutions there are communities in which we find all of these branches of the municipal government giving attention to these matters."

Recommend One Organization.

"In general, to El Paso, it will be much better to make one organization responsible for this work. Such organization should cooperate with all other local institutions whose facilities can be used in any way for the public good. The public school grounds, as well as the school buildings, should be used to their capacity, but in such a way that these activities do not interfere in any way with the regular school work. The public library can play a very useful part in the establishment of branch libraries in various parts of the city and the dissemination of good literature. The parks also play a very important part."

Suggests Form of Commission.

"In this connection I would suggest that a recreation commission, such an organization, while assuming responsibility for this work, would cooperate with and coordinate the service of all other municipal departments wherever possible. Under such an organization the widest possible scope could be given to this work comprising these facilities, the nature of the work would be rendered positive facilities to all adults, as well as to the boys and girls of the community."

Gives Idea of Cost.

"There is no fast rule relative to the amount of money which any city should expend for the maintenance of a park and recreation system. Available statistics indicate that $200 dollars per thousand population will be about adequate to meet the requirements. Another system is often used to arrive at an approximation is to take the full assessed value of the city, and appropriate $1000 for every $100,000 of assessment. There are local conditions and circumstances which might indicate that these rules could not be followed in detail. But the main object in any such system is to adopt some plan that will automatically increase the appropriation as the city grows, and the occasion for public service increases."

3000 LIVES OF UNITED PEOPLE

Dr. Hollis, Speaker for Engineers, Says Americans
Together in War.

Army and civilian engineers mingled together, feasted and exchanged ideas Friday night at Hotel Paso del Norte, at the annual banquet of the Southwestern Society of Engineers, whose convention was concluded Saturday morning. The line was one set aside for festivity, but Dr. Ira S. Hollis, the first speaker called on by toastmaster S. H. Worrell, gave a more serious cue for the other speakers when he said, "I feel like praying for my country every night."

"There is one thing that strikes me forcibly," said Dr. Hollis. "That is the sameness of the lives of all true Americans at this time. There is no difference between north and south. We have nothing now in this country the world has never seen before, 3000 miles of people with one mind and one thought and the same ideal."

German's Heart Bleeds.

"The German's heart bleeds for the average, is likewise of these opinions. The speaker, who was the guest of honor at the banquet, was a German member of the Harvard faculty, saying, 'My heart bleeds for my dear fatherland, and I am under the heels of a cruel, vile Prussian.'"

"At the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Hollis left the meeting and prepared to take a late train to continue his journey westward. A vote of thanks for his attendance at the convention and his address was extended him."

Want 200 Members.

H. W. Goddard, E. M. Butler, Donald R. Gillies and A. P. Turner made talks planned to stir the members to more activity making the society grow. There are now 115 on roll and 200 are desired when the spring convention is held, somewhere in Arizona, they said.

"Every man in the society owes your chance to serve our country and shall watch your progress with pride. The substance of a telegram sent by secretary C. R. Hargrave to the members of the society serving in the army."

Everybody is in the Army.

"We are glorying in the present struggle because the country at large is glorying in it," said Maj. J. A. O'Connor, St. Louis, Mo., in his address. "The universality of interest now manifest is very gratifying to all of us in the army. Everybody is in the army now. It is all the great machine. The men actually wearing the khaki may be said to be the working part of the machine, but the civilian members as the shaft and wheels. Spirit will win or lose the war, and spirit must be put into the entire machine."

Army Getting Finest Men.

Maj. V. A. Woods, an army engineer, said men far above the old average are now being received in the army. The army is getting the best of the country. He said, "In times of peace and plenty, few want to leave good positions to enter the army, and often the man out of work is our average. The major gave an outline of the daily duties of an army engineer and told the members of the society what he would show them by way of trenches when they came out to visit his camp Saturday morning."

On Break of Advance.

"We are on the break of a great advance of the standard of engineers," said W. A. E. Woods who pleaded for a more strenuous membership campaign. The speaker said that the army is getting the best of the country. He said, "In times of peace and plenty, few want to leave good positions to enter the army, and often the man out of work is our average. The major gave an outline of the daily duties of an army engineer and told the members of the society what he would show them by way of trenches when they came out to visit his camp Saturday morning."

The Banquet.

Those present at the banquet were: W. A. E. Woods, William Freydisch, W. M. James, J. E. Woodward, Jr., E. W. Goddard, Lieut. John Wheeler, W. R. Stewart, William J. Jennings, R. K. Figgitt, A. P. Turner, W. W. Ward, Lieut. E. G. Renter, Jr., J. N. Mayfield, J. E. Lanning, J. P. Sheehan, J. C. White, Lieut. C. R. Hargrave, Lieut. R. S. Moore and W. C. Henger.

Give Camp Code Figures. Technical figures arranged in engineering fashion, were given by C. A. Tilton and Maj. C. H. Miller on the problem of fuel in building Camp Cody. Fifteen hundred buildings were erected at a total cost of $2,000,000 and covering 2400 acres, of 12,000 miles of water mains and 15 miles of laterals, with 2000 shower heads, were laid. Mess halls totaling 85, enough to make a string nearly eight miles long, were built. The total amount of lumber used for tent floors was about 2,000,000 feet. The camp capacity is 25,000 men.

Formal program of the fall convention of the Southwestern Society of Engineers was brought to a close with a demonstration Saturday morning at the camp of the Eight Engineers near Fort Bliss. The army men showed the civilian engineers what their duties were in the line of trench building and in fortification work. Spectacular quantities of heartworks and barbed wire entanglements, set up by a supposed enemy, were destroyed by the army, who took luncheon with Maj. V. L. Peterson and the other officers.

S. P. HAS DERAILMENT. Owing to the derailment of two cars on a freight train near Yuma, Ariz., Southern Pacific train No. 1 from the west, due at El Paso at 4:20 p. m., is reported to arrive at 1:20 a. m. Sunday, and train No. 19, due at 10 p. m., is reported to arrive at 4 a. m. Sunday.

CAN FIRE CITY C.S. COMMISSION

Judge Falvey's Opinion Is That Mayor Can Withdraw Appointments.

It is at any time the mayor of El Paso decides to withdraw his appointments to the civil service commission and abolish that body, he may do so, and no one will have the right to question his action. This opinion is expressed by Judge T. A. Falvey, engaged by the mayor and councilmen to render an opinion on the civil service amendment to the city charter, the opinion to define the respective powers of the commission and of the elected city council. Judge Falvey's opinion was handed to mayor Charles Davis Saturday morning.

While there can be no question following a discharge of the commission by the mayor, he may, if so wished, file a written statement of his reasons with the city clerk, the opinion said.

As in the power of appointing members of the police force, Judge Falvey's opinion was that during the life of the commission, the mayor has no authority to make any appointment from outside to chief, unless the appointee has been recommended by the commission, and should the mayor discharge any member of the force, the discharged man has the right to appeal to the commission.

It is reported that mayor Davis has been considering the abolition of the police commission. It is known that many of his political advisers have urged him to take this action, in order that the force may be made into a political machine, as of old. Men identified with the old rule are said to have been among those strongest in their arguments for the abolition of the commission.
